

Six out of 10 people with Alzheimer’s will wander

You can’t know when it will happen, but you’ll know what to do when it does.

It’s common for a person with Alzheimer’s or a related dementia to wander and become lost. Many do repeatedly. This can be dangerous – even life threatening. The stress can weigh heavily on family and caregivers.

Alzheimer’s Association Safe Return® helps reunite loved ones with the person with dementia who has wandered. We provide 24/7 assistance, no matter when or where the person is reported missing. For more information, please go to www.alz.org.

You must fill out this form in its entirety to complete your registration.

How it works

Enrollee is reported missing

Information and photo (if provided) are faxed to local police, who help in the search.

Enrollee is found

- Citizen or police officer finds the person and calls the toll-free Safe Return number listed on the enrollee's ID.
- Safe Return notifies enrollee's contacts, making sure the person is returned home.

Cost

$40 fee includes:

- ID product
- 36 iron-on clothing labels
- Key chain
- Phone sticker
- Wallet card
- 5 Steps for a Safe Return refrigerator magnet to aid you in a quick response

$20 Annual Program Administration Fee

After one year, you will receive an invoice requesting a $20 annual program administrative fee. This fee helps Safe Return respond to more than 6,000 calls for help each year.
